Problem of Supplies Mounts as Enemy Is Chased Across France

18. Pursuit Across France.

BY THE end of August the approximate strength of the Allied forces on the Continent was twenty American divisions, twelve British divisions, three Canadian divisions, one French, and one Polish division. There were no more British divisions available, but in the United Kingdom were an additional six American divisions, including three airborne.

The operational strength of all available air forces was approximately 4,035 heavy bombers, 1,720 light, medium, and torpedo bombers, and 5,000 fighters. Added to all this was the Troop Transport Command, which, counting both American and British formations, numbered more than 2,000 transport planes.

* * *

AGAINST A DEFEATED and demoralized enemy almost any reasonable risk is justified and the success attained by the victor will ordinarily be measured in the boldness, almost foolhardiness, of his movements. The whole purpose of the costly breakthrough and the whirlwind attacks of the succeeding three weeks was to produce just such a situation as now confronted us. We had been preparing our plans so as to reap the richest harvest from the initial success. But the difficulties of supply, once our column began their forward race, was a problem that required effective solution if we were to gain our full battle profit.

Our logistic formations had been confined in a very restricted area during the entire Battle of the Beachhead. The only operating ports were Cherbourg and the artificial port on the British beaches near Arromanches.

The repair of Cherbourg had presented many difficulties. The harbor and approaches had to be cleared of hundreds of mines, many of them of new and particularly efficient types. We began using the port in July, but it did not reach volume production until the middle of August. The artificial port on the American beaches had been demolished in the June storm.

These meager facilities could not support us indefinitely and there was bound to be a line somewhere in the direction of Germany where we would be halted, if not by the action of the enemy, then because our supply lines had been strained to their elastic limit.

* * *

A REINFORCED DIVISION, in active operations, consumes from 600 to 700 tons of supplies per day. When battling in a fixed position, most of this tonnage is represented in ammunition on the march the bulk is devoted to gasoline and lubricants, called in the language of supply officers POL.

With thirty-six divisions in action we were faced with the problem of delivering from beaches and ports to the front lines some 20,000 tons of supplies every day. Our spearheads, moreover, were moving swiftly, frequently seventy-five miles per day. The supply service had to catch these with loaded trucks.

All units were certainly going to be short of supply. The task was to adjust deficits so as to avoid stopping troops before they had accomplished their main objectives and this in turn meant that no formation could get one pound of supply over and above that needed for basic missions.

When action is proceeding as rapidly as it did across France during the hectic days of late August and early September every commander from division upward becomes obsessed with the idea that with only a few more tons of supply he could rush right on and win the war. This is the spirit that wins wars and is always to be encouraged. Initiative confidence and boldness are among the most admirable traits of the good combat leader.

* * *

IN THE LATE SUMMER days of 1944 it was known to us that the German still had disposable reserves within his own country. Any idea of attempting to thrust forward a small force, bridge the Rhine, and continue on into the heart of Germany was completely fantastic. Even had such a force been able to start with a total of ten or a dozen divisions—and it is certain no more could have been supported even temporarily—the attacking column would have gradually grown smaller as it dropped off units to protect its flanks and would have ended up facing inescapable defeat. Such an attempt would have played into the hands of the enemy.

The American VII and XIX Corps advanced by rapid strides in the vicinity of Mons (scene of one of the great battles of the First World War), they trapped between them an entire German corps. After a fierce engagement 25,000 prisoners were taken. In ordinary times this would have been acclaimed as a great victory. But the times were far from ordinary and the event passed almost unnoticed in the press.

A special problem that became acute toward the end of August was that of determining what to do about Paris. During all preliminary operations we had been at great pains to avoid direct bombing of the French capital. Even in the process of destroying French communications we had in the Paris region done this by attacking railway bottlenecks on

Deer Romps About Columbus Suburb

By The United Press

COLUMBUS, Nov. 26—Police kept a sharp watch today for a confused deer that upset the serenity of Thanksgiving day in suburban Grandview Heights by galloping through yards and in front of automobiles.

The deer was described as a four-point buck or several persons who called police to report the animal in several sections of the community. The animal was last seen running across a field.

Police believe the deer may be the same one that was reported seen in the Ohio State university farms area several days ago.

Shipping Tieups Costing 344 Million Expected To End After Union Vote Tomorrow.

By The Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 26—Telegraphed voting was underway on both the East and West coasts today to end the nearly five months' paralyzing shipping strike.

Negotiators in the 86-day CIO longshore strike on the Pacific coast announced settlement terms last night. Earlier in the day they had agreed on peace with the 17-day strike of AFL longshoremen on the Atlantic coast.

Both separate agreements must be ratified by the union memberships before some 315 strike-bound ships put to sea.

On the Pacific coast five other unions are involved in the strike but the longshore terms are considered the key to peace. The four other unions scheduled meetings with management today.

Final settlement would return 92,000 to maritime jobs and many thousands more to work in other industries halted or curtailed by the strike.

It would release some $30,000,000 of Marshall plan cargo in eastern docks and restore business moving into the millions of dollars.

The Pacific tieup second longest in history, has cost by estimate of the Pacific American shipowners about $344,000,000 in trade at the rate of $4,000,000 a day.

The negotiators' agreement boosts the western longshore basic wage by 15 cents to $1.82 an hour which was the amount the union was asking when it struck Sept. 2.

The AFL union officers tentatively agreed on a 13-cent hike retroactive to Aug. 21 to bring the eastern daytime base scale to $1.88 an hour.

The 65,000 AFL union members vote Saturday on the terms. The union's lowest previous demand was 25 cents above the pre-strike $1.75 hourly daytime rate.

Waterfront observers predicted union ratification of the Pacific agreement but believed that if no hitches developed it would be about a week before dock work resumes on the 265 idled ships.

Pacific Coast Terms

The Pacific Coast Waterfront Employers association agreement with the longshoremen carried provisions for a three-year contract, to be operated under a peace plan underwritten by the national CIO on one side and the San Francisco employers' council on the other.

It provided for improved grievance machinery, increased vacation benefits and a designated day off each week. There would be maximum shifts of nine hours, and an 8 a. m. starting time.

The announcement of the Pacific terms described the proposed new pact as "one based on complete good faith." The two sides joined in the prediction that this contract and this new spirit can mean a new era for west coast shipping."

One Killed In Prison Escape

8 Others Surrender, Trapped in Yard After Sawing Way Out of Jail.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Nov. 26—One fugitive was killed and eight others surrendered after the first mass escape from the Cook county jail last night. Nine were trapped in the jail yard.

Two jail guard awaited the daring attempt of the nine prisoners. Many of them exchanged shots with the guards over the 22-foot wall after escaping from their first floor cells.

The nine prisoners awaiting transfer to state prisons fled from the jail shortly after 7 p. m. after they and about 1,000 other prisoners had been sent to their cells.

Sheriff Elmer Michael Walsh today suspended three guards at the jail for "failure to count heads throughout the day, which would have ascertained that three men were missing." He said

Pair Unheard From Since Stop Here on October 6.

Mystery of a missing Detroit woman and her two-year-old son who were last reported seen in Marion, deepened today when they still were unaccounted for nearly six weeks after their disappearance, The Associated Press reported.

The missing persons are Mrs. Rose Park, 33, and her son David Allen Park, 2.

They were last reported seen when they left a Greyhound bus at the union bus depot here on Oct. 6. The bus was southbound from Detroit. The woman and child were enroute to Beckley, W. Va., to visit relatives. They never arrived there.

City police today said they had not been contacted by Marvin Park, 41, of Detroit, husband and father of the missing pair, in his long search for his family.

Seen at Bus Station

The manager of the Greyhound terminal here, last place the mother and her son were reported seen, said today no inquiry concerning the missing pair had been received since mid-October, when the driver of the bus from which Mrs. Park disappeared with her son, quizzed lunch counter and ticket office attendants here concerning her disappearance. Station personnel revealed today a woman answering the description of Mrs. Park had inquired about a bus to Oklahoma City, Okla.

Yesterday brought only sadness to Mr. Park at his modest East Side apartment in Detroit.

Hopeful that his wife and son might return he had prepared a Thanksgiving dinner, complete with roast turkey. Then he sat down to wait, but no one showed up.

"We hadn't quarreled," Park recalled today. "In fact we got along very well. My wife never left me before. We have no relatives or friends in Oklahoma. I don't know why she would go there. I have no idea why she left.

Appeared Nervous

"I remember she seemed nervous and high strung before she left. It seemed like something was on her mind as I look back now. But she didn't mention it to me."

For three weeks after they left, Park laid off work, as he vainly searched for the two.

"I finally went back to work after I calmed down a little," he explained. "It probably was the best thing to do."

The past two Thanksgivings, the husband, wife and child had been together in their small apartment.

So, on a hunch, Park went ahead yesterday just as if nothing had happened. He bought a turkey, had it ready in the oven and laid the table—just in case.

Then he sat down to wait.

When evening shadows blocked out his view of the festive, Park rose and walked out, shoulders sagging. He went over to a relative's and had a sandwich.

Today he cleared the table in his apartment and took the turkey out of the oven.

"It wasn't a very good hunch," he admitted desperately. "Maybe we—well, Christmas is coming you know."

CIO PLANS TO REELECT HEADS

Delegates Plan Wild Demonstration for President Philip Murray.

By The Associated Press

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 26—The CIO, having told the world how it feels about Communists, prepared to reflect all its officers today and put on a wild demonstration for Philip Murray.

Murray, 62 years old, now begins his ninth year as undisputed leader of the organization of 40 unions. His policies are supported by at least nine-tenths of the delegates to the convention that ends today.

During four stirring days of this convention, Murray departed from his peace-making tradition of past years. He rose up in public with a series of onslaughts against the leftist that will certainly echo in CIO meeting halls throughout this country and may have a considerable effect in the international labor movement.

Communists and their friends in the smaller unions of the left wing have been squelched so thoroughly that their future is shaky indeed.

The convention yesterday gave the CIO executive board almost unlimited power to take the job of organizing workers away from those leaders.

The action came after Murray declared he will not protect "cliques of men whose interests are promoted and propagated by the Daily Worker and the Communist party."

The convention also provided a steady income—more than $100,000 monthly—for the southern organizing drive, and more money for national CIO activities. This was done by a three-cents-a-month raise in the per capita tax which CIO unions pay to the CIO for each of their members.

A political campaign against Albert J. Fitzgerald, president of the Electrical Workers, has petered out. Some vigorous right-wingers wanted to defeat Fitzgerald as a CIO vice-president. Murray wouldn't give his blessing to the movement. So Fitzgerald was expected to be re-elected without opposition today, along with the other eight CIO vice-presidents.

14 German War Criminals Hanged

By The Associated Press

MUNICH, Germany, Nov. 26—Fourteen German war criminals were hanged today at Landsberg prison.

The executions brought to 87 the number of men executed in groups of from nine to 15 on seven consecutive Fridays for the slaying of concentration camp inmates and American prisoners of war.

An eighth hour stay of execution was granted Richard Schulze-Schlutius, assistant to S. S. General Ernest Kaltenbrunner. Kaltenbrunner was hanged after the original war crimes trial at Nuernberg.

The original list of men scheduled to be hanged after conviction by American war crimes courts contained 139 names. The cases of 48 of the 52 remaining men are being reviewed.

One hundred twenty-eight accidents were reported in the nation for the same period last year, The Associated Press reported.

Deaths were reported from two accidental shootings, fires, and a plane crash in Ohio; a violent death toll while six persons died in the state in holiday traffic accidents.

One Marion woman suffered minor injuries in one of five traffic accidents here over the holiday while a Cardington driver was fined after a collision of two cars on a bridge on route 42 yesterday.

More Than 100 Killed In Holiday Accidents

By The Associated Press

The nation's death toll from violent accidents over the Thanksgiving day holiday passed the 100 mark, a survey showed today.

The total of 105 fatalities from 6 p. m. Wednesday to midnight Thursday (local time) compared with a violent death toll of 128 for Thanksgiving day last year. On the same holiday in 1946 there were 83 deaths from violent accidents.

About two thirds of the fatalities in the holiday resulted from accidents on the highway. The survey showed that 80 persons lost their lives in traffic mishaps. The other 25 died in accidents from miscellaneous causes including drowning, plane crashes and falls.

The national safety council did not make an estimate of the probable number of deaths by accidents for the period.

One Person Hurt In One of Five Mishaps

Police report five traffic accidents over the holiday.

Gladys Watson, 37, of 428 Avondale avenue suffered slight injuries in a minor traffic accident at 5:03 p. m. Wednesday.

She was riding as a passenger in a car driven by Leland T. Watson, 34, of Park street when it collided on West Center street with a car driven by Paul Dean Drake, 16, of 542 Bellefontaine avenue. She was treated by her family physician for a bumped right knee, then released.

A parked car owned by Eldon L. Davis, of 678 Church street was rammed by a hit-skip driver in front of the Davis home at 7:31 p. m. yesterday. A police investigation of the case is in progress with numerous clues supplied by eye-witnesses to the accident as a basis for the investigation.

Cars driven by Howard L. Oneyler of 382 East Church street and Telford W. Taylor of 265 South Seffner avenue collided on East Church street at 5:12 p. m. yesterday. Considerable damage resulted, according to police reports.

A fifth traffic accident resulted in the arrest of Forest L. Fortner, 27, of 244 Oak street on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident. Police charged today Fortner left the scene of a collision between a car driven by him and a car driven by Robert E. Conley, 40, of 466 Forest street said to have occurred at 7:40 p. m. Wednesday in front of the Marion Power Shovel Co. plant on West Center street. Fortner's car was held as bond for his appearance today in municipal court to answer the charge.

499 OHIO DRAFTEES ENTER ARMY TODAY

No Marion Co. Men in First Peacetime Call.

Although Ohio's first 499 peacetime draftees entered the Army today, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Columbus, local draft board clerk Miss Dorothy Tew said no Marion county men would be among the new inductees.

Marion's first draft quota called for one man to be sent from here on Nov. 30. The local board was forced to decline this quota because of an absence of physically fit draftees from here who had already taken required physical examinations. Thirteen men are now available for a draft call here during December, the board clerk reported.

A state draft official said today's 499 draftees were ordered to report to twelve Army induction centers throughout the state for last-minute physical checkups. Assignment to training camps, followed induction into the Army, with most of the new soldiers ordered to Fort Knox, Ky., for training.

Leaving for the Mansfield induction station were Gerald Eberhard Mt. Gilead, Harold Eugene Hancock of Cardington, Harold Morgan Keaton of Marengo, and Ralph Fred Steele of Sparta. Jacob Arndt of Mt. Gilead, also scheduled to be inducted today, has previously enlisted in the service.

The draft board received a call Tuesday for five youths to take pre-induction physical examinations on Dec. 9 at Mansfield.

MANSFIELD BOY SHOT

By The Associated Press

MANSFIELD, O., Nov. 26—Richard Richardson, 12, was shot and wounded seriously today while hunting with his brother, Paul, 14, near here. Richard was shot in the abdomen with a 12-gauge gun when he accidentally got in front of his older brother, deputy sheriffs were told.

POLICE WAGE TRIAL OPENS

Action is Brought To Collect $19,791 in Back Pay for Depression Years.

Trial of the suit for back pay filed by Clyde Hardin on behalf of himself and 15 other present and former members of the Marion police department, opened today in common pleas court.

Judge Leland Rutherford of Morrow county common pleas court is hearing the case. It is being tried without a jury as was the companion case of the city firemen heard the week of Nov. 9.

As with the firemen's suit, back pay is claimed for the years 1933, '34, '36 and '37. Individual claims range from $441.97 to $1,963.82, the largest being that sought for Police Chief Marks. The list includes police captains E. C. Mackan, Ora De Wees and Louis Kirts in addition to regularly rated city patrolmen during the years covered in the action, and several who have since retired from the force.

$19,791 Sought

Total amount sought is $19,791.07.

Representing Hardin and the others "similarly situated", is Carter M. Patton. William P. Maloney and Maloney and Kelly, who handled the firemens suit are assisting in the companion case.

Counsel for the city is the same as before, comprising John W. Watters, city solicitor, and Frank Wiedeman as special counsel.

Trial of the suit is expected to follow the same pattern as the preceding one. Awaiting to be called to testify when the case opened were City Auditor Elmer Shaw, city clerk, Mrs. Mayme Gorton, Mrs. Raymond Furnis, clerk in the office of county auditor and a number of the city policemen.

Mayor Dowler, himself a lawyer, was at the table for defense counsel in advisory capacity as was the case in the firemen's suit.

Recess Called

Judge Rutherford recessed court this morning while the two parties got together on salary figures claimed, prior to their submission into evidence along with payroll and appropriation records for the years for which pay had been allegedly withheld.

The long recesses while litigants got together on records and figures as occurred in the previous suit may not develop during this trial. Completion of the case should come in considerably less than the four days taken for the firemen's suit.

There are only 16 policemen for whom figures must be checked whereas there were about three dozen firemen. Certain agreements in procedure arrived at in the previous suit will carry over in the handling of the police suit, with a possible saving seen in time consuming conferences over what and in what form, figures records to be used as evidence are to be entered into the court record.

Suits are Separate

Although the suit is separate from the firemen's suit, further action in the latter is expected to await the outcome of this case, both the firemen and the city have filed for new trial with the motions still before Judge Rutherford for disposal.

Attorneys for the firemen indicated there was a strong possibility that an appeal would be

UNIVIS LENS CO. OFFICIAL BEATEN

By The Associated Press

TOLEDO, O. Nov. 26 Frank Welling 41, vice president and comptroller of the Univis Lens Co. at Dayton O. was in a critical condition today after being beaten, he said by two strangers who accosted him in a Toledo restaurant.

He is at St. Vincent's hospital with a broken nose, brain concussion, possible skull fracture and face cuts.

Welling said he drove here from Dayton early yesterday to spend Thanksgiving with his parents and stopped in the lunch room at 3:30 a. m. Two strangers sat near him, struck him and started an argument, then the beating followed, he reported.

The lens company official stated, he said he could not recall what the argument was about.

Welling said left Dayton after a[illegible] two sons in Detroit to visit her relatives.

A 9-day violent strike at Univis plant ended Aug. 10 after the 200 employes members of the CIO United Electrical Workers, received a 15-cent-an-hour pay raise. The strike was marked by more than three months of negotiations, picket line violence, court battles and National Guard intervention.

Deferment Refused Chiropractic Students

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26 Selective service today refused to defer chiropractic students from the draft.

The National Chiropractic Association and the National Capital Chiropractic Society had protested to Director General Lewis B. Hershey after a special selective service "healing arts" committee recommended deferring medical, veterinary, osteopathic and dental students, but omitted the chiropractors.

Selective service offered this answer in letters to the chiropractors:

1. Since the armed forces need doctors badly, medical students are being deferred to maintain a supply.

2. The armed forces are not looking for chiropractors; therefore there is no special reason for deferring chiropractic students.

Another deferment problem was dropped on Hershey's desk today by the National Society of Professional Engineers, which asked "uniform national regulations" on student deferments — instead of leaving the decision up to local boards.

ONE KILLED

three prisoners were "busy completing the job" of sawing through steel walls.

Sain said Nicholas Ferri, 24, a guard stationed in the yard, spotted the nine men immediately. When they ignored his command to halt he fired one shot over their heads. The shot attracted the attention of William Riley, 41, a second guard in the yard.

The warden said one of the prisoners had started to climb to the top of the wall and when Riley approached he dropped to the ground and nine prisoners, one of whom was carrying a rope fashioned from two torn bedsheets, advanced toward the guards.

Riley fired one shotgun charge which hit and killed the column leader. He was identified as Andrew Evans, 28, of New Orleans, an ex-convict with a police record dating to 1937. He was awaiting transfer to Joliet penitentiary to serve a three to 10 year term for automobile larceny.

The other eight prisoners offered no resistance.

Cadillac
PRESENTS ITS CREATIVE MASTERPIECE...

No Cadillac announcement has ever been more significant than the one which appears on this page. For, this year, Cadillac presents its creative masterpiece—a wholly new V-type eight-cylinder engine—which is, beyond all doubt, the highest development yet attained in automotive power plants. ★ This great power plant has been twelve years in the building—for basic development work started in 1936. It has many unusual qualities which set it apart from all other creations of its kind. It is far more alert, powerful and responsive to the throttle—yet it affords an increase in gasoline economy of approximately twenty per cent. And the manner of its performance actually challenges the imagination. It is liquid smooth; it is quick and eager beyond all experience; yet the power application is so effortless that the driver is scarcely aware of the engine's existence. The car seems almost to move by automatic propulsion. ★ Even experienced Cadillac owners must put aside all previous conceptions of performance when they drive the 1949 Cadillac. It is a revelation—from silken start to silken stop. ★ There are, of course, many other advancements in addition to the history-making engine. There is new beauty in the front ensemble; there is a newly-designed, more attractive instrument panel, with all driving controls at your finger tips; and throughout the chassis and body will be found those characteristic refinements which result from Cadillac's unceasing search for perfection. ★ But the big Cadillac story, for 1949, is performance. It is not only the world's new standard—it is beyond the world's current conception.

COUNTY TO RETAIN OLD TAX VALUATION

Crawford Figures To Hold Until 1949.

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, Nov. 26—Crawford county's real estate owners received a break today when the county board of revision rejected a plan of County Auditor Frederick Klein to use the new increased property valuations for the 1948 tax duplicate.

Auditor Klein previously had announced that the new valuations would be used for the 1948 tax duplicate beginning with taxes payable Dec. 20.

When the board of revision, which is composed of Klein, County Treasurer Mae L. Kloepfer and Lawrence Heinlen, chairman of the county commissioners met this week, Mrs. Kloepfer offered a motion that the 1947 valuation be retained because the reappraisal being conducted by Klein was not completed. Her motion was promptly seconded by Heinlen and the motion carried.

Under the reappraisal, alterations have been raised an average of 20 per cent in Bucyrus, Galion and Crestline while farm and township properties were increased an average of 10 per cent.

The board of revision's action will result in taxpayers paying on their old valuations for 1948 taxes. The new values will be used on the 1949 duplicate.

The appraisal was started more than a year ago by Deputy Appraisers Harry Barrett and Alpha M. Winter, both of Bucyrus. Industrial property was appraised by a professional appraisal firm.

Courthouse observers pointed out that while property in Bucyrus, Galion and Crestline was appraised individually, rural and village properties were given a blanket 10 per cent increase.

At present, Appraisers Barrett and Winter are making a check of farm and village property.

Fear Jap Cat Disease May Affect Humans

By The United Press

TOKYO, Nov. 26—Veterinarians reported yesterday that 1,481 cats died in Japan in the past four months of a disease that might be Japanese sleeping sickness.

They said the deaths of thousands of other cats might have gone unreported.

Nearly 3,000 persons died from the sleeping sickness last summer. It was feared the current high rate of animal infection might spread disease among humans.

BRITISH POLL TAKEN ON WORLD LEADERS

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Nov. 26—The weekly magazine News Review says that on the basis of a recent poll the British regard Prime Minister Stalin and Foreign Minister Molotov of Russia and President Truman—in that order—as the persons "doing the most harm in the world today."

The conclusion was from a sampling of opinion by Mass Observation, a British survey organization. It was made before the U. S. elections.

News Review said Stalin is feared "not only because he is felt to threaten western Europe but because he is believed to enslave the peoples of the U. S. S. R."

President Truman and Molotov along with British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin, "are usually mentioned together . . . as power politicians," the magazine said.

The survey said the British regard the three persons most often mentioned as "doing good" are Sir John Boyd Orr, former head of the United Nations food and agricultural organization, Secretary of State Marshall and Sir Alexander Fleming, British discoverer of penicillin.

Your Good Health

By DR. HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

Clicking Sensation in the Jaw Joint.

A great many people occasionally notice a clicking in the jaw joint and sometimes feel as if it were going to lock during a yawn. Ordinarily this is not a serious matter, but in some instances it becomes so severe that the mouth cannot be opened wide enough for normal eating. In other patients the jaw may lock when the mouth is opened wide, or it may be the audible clicking of the jaw at every movement is the most annoying feature of the trouble.

Whether mild and occasional or constant and severe the cause of this disorder is always the same — a derangement of the cartilage disc between the bone surfaces which form the joint between the upper and lower jaws. Usually this consists of loosening or enlargement of the disc.

Some slight injury to the joint, such as might be inflicted by too wide a yawn, may precede the development of the condition. A blow on the joint may have the same result, but most cases can be traced either to the extraction of teeth or a natural malocclusion or improper bite. This causes long - continued strain which gradually brings about changes in the cartilage. In case of sudden injury, the cartilage is loosened and thereafter the repeated twisting and snapping involved in ordinary movements of the jaw cause the cartilage to enlarge, with the result that symptoms are made worse.

In treating this disorder, if the bite is not proper, it should be corrected. If an injury has occurred recently, splintering of the joint for a time may allow the condition to clear up without becoming chronic or long-continued.

In those cases in which pain is present, the use of heat, such as heat produced by using a short-wave diathermy machine, may bring marked benefit.

None of these treatments will correct the condition if the cartilage is either too large or too loose. In such cases, an operation is necessary. During the operation, the cartilage is removed.

After the removal of the disc a kept comfortable and quick cures are given for this. After a time movements of the jaw may be gradually permitted.

In the cases in which the only symptom is clicking in the joint, operation as a rule not needed. However, at times the clicking may be so objectionable to the patient that removal of the cartilage is advisable.

Questions and Answers

J. N.: My wife has enlarged glands in the neck. Some years ago she had tuberculosis. Could tuberculosis be the cause for the condition?

Answer: It is possible that the enlarged glands are due to tuberculous infection of the other hand, it may be due to infection of the throat, nose, and mouth. The condition might also be due to some disorder affecting the blood.

A careful study of the lungs is advisable. It may be necessary to remove a bit of tissue from one of the glands to examine under the microscope.

SHIP'S PASSENGERS BROKE AFTER WAIT

By The Associated Press

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng., Nov. 26 — By the Queen Elizabeth's usual standards of luxury, it was an austere voyage when the world's largest ocean liner sailed for New York next Sunday on her second schedule.

But there will be no complaints from the passengers.

"It's enough for us that we're on our way," said one.

About 1,500 passengers have been stranded aboard the Elizabeth here since last Friday, awaiting the outcome of the American east coast dockworkers' strike.

When it was announced yesterday in New York that the strike had been settled subject to vote by the dock workers, the Cunard White Star lines announced the Elizabeth would sail Sunday. Her sister ship the Queen Mary will follow on Wednesday.

News of the sailing touched off mass rejoicing aboard the ship. The announcement was all the more welcome because it came on Thanksgiving Day.

But the sailing and high spirits are characteristic of the Queen's first passengers, many of whom have gone broke during the unexpected layover in Southampton.

The bulk of the 1,500 passengers are Americans and probably one-fifth of the 600 tourist passengers who will be picked up at Cherbourg, France, on the New York run now can't afford the more expensive trip as paying passengers.

Even tipping will be a problem. Hard-up travelers [illegible] supply themselves with [illegible] and several already have paid their way by check.

[illegible] passenger says he has $8 or $10 left. But in this case, voluntary passengers are even worse off. In the tourist class [illegible] destitution is not uncommon.

Actress Made Honorary Member of Players

A Hollywood movie actress, Penny Edwards, has been made an honorary member of the Ideal dramatic organization, the Apollo Players. The membership was presented to Miss Edwards Wednesday night in Columbus at the RKO-Palace theater where she was making a three day personal appearance by Robert Switzer, president of the Apollo Players and Charles Elliott. Wife Miss Edwards at the time was her sister who accompanies the daughter on her trips.

Miss Edwards is remembered for her acting role in the film, "Two Guys from Texas," which starred Jack Carson and Dennis Morgan. Other pictures she has made are "My Wild Irish Rose" and "That Hagen Girl."

At present Miss Edwards is making a personal appearance tour throughout the country with her pictures.

DISCUSS COMPROMISE ON CIVIL RIGHTS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov 26 — A southern senator disclosed yesterday that a compromise on the troublesome civil rights issue between Dixie Democrats and backers of President Truman is "under discussion."

Senator Fulbright (D-Ark) told a reporter he believes that a "fair compromise can be worked out as far as legislation is concerned" on such controversial measures as anti-lynching and anti-poll tax.

"But I'm not predicting that the senate will accept them," Fulbright said, pointing out that feelings are hot on both sides of the argument that split the Democratic party prior to the last election.

Fulbright said one proposal is that any federal laws dealing with lynching or poll taxes exempt those states "which now have adequate state laws."

One of the main arguments of southern Democrats in the past against the civil rights measures is that they fail to respect the right and ability of states to handle such problems.

"As an example, it's just foolish to try to enact a federal anti-lynching law that would apply to Virginia," Fulbright said. "They have not had a lynching there in 20 years or more. The same is true with most other states. They have adequate state laws."

Similarly, Fulbright said the poll tax is a problem in only a few states.

The Arkansas senator said programs to end discrimination in employment presents a more difficult problem.

DISABLED VETS GIVEN TIME TO FILE CLAIMS

By International News Service

WASHINGTON, Nov 26 — The house veterans committee said yesterday that disabled ex-servicemen have been given an additional three months in which to file claims for government benefits for dependents. Veterans administrator Carl Gray advised the committee that the Dec. 1 deadline is being extended to Feb. 1 at the request of Rep. Rogers, (R) of Mass., chairman of the house group.

AIR FORCE EXPLAINS DUMPING OF VALVES

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON Nov 26—The Air Force said yesterday it dumped a quantity of airplane engine valves at the end of the war because of "a critical storage problem."

Some of the valves were found in a salvage dump by private individuals. Published reports estimated there were 80,000 valves worth between $1,000,000 and $6,000,000, but the Air Force said it had no figures on the number or value.

The Air Force plans to discontinue these special valves in its B-29 engines when the present supply of 207,655 is used up some 21 months from now, an official said.

When the war ended, an Air Force announcement said, it had "far more than would be needed in the foreseeable future" for engines in its B-17s, B-25s and B 29s.

So, it kept a five-year supply and ordered the remainder discarded. The valves are a special type filled with sodium for cooler operation.

The Air Force said the valves were not then being used by any commercial airline and storing them would have been hazardous.

It was explained that when moisture gets into the valves there is a chemical reaction which produces highly inflammable hydrogen. The valves were ordered buried more than 30 inches deep because of the gas hazard, which also was said to prohibit melting the valves down for scrap.

Schricker Wins Indiana Governorship 2nd Time

(One of a series of 22 articles on new governors chosen in the November elections.)

• • •

By The Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS Nov 26 — When Henry F Schricker takes over the governorship Jan. 10, he'll be the first man in 97 years of Indiana statehood to hold that honor twice.

The 65-year-old banker suave and greying is warm and friendly and he loves to make speeches—off the cuff.

In 1944 Schricker was Democratic candidate for the U S senate, but he failed to go along with President Roosevelt and both lost Indiana. This time the candidate campaigned from the beginning for President Truman. Although Schricker won the state by almost 140,000 votes Mr Truman failed by a close 9,000.

Schricker's political trademark is a spotless white hat—a big one. His campaign buttons had only the white hat on them.

His tobacco chewing is a personal habit of which the Republicans sought to make campaign fodder, accusing him of "borrowing $150 worth from the farmers." The governor-elect denied he borrowed the tobacco, but bragged he always had time to swap brands with any farmer.

Schricker made more than 260 speeches during the campaign, covering the state by automobile. His Republican opponent flew his own airplane. The Democrat told his audiences he was "old-fashioned and wanted to keep his feet on the ground."

He always got a cheer from the women when he added, "I want to be able to see the beauties of Indiana from the ground."

Schricker, born in North Judson, Ind., has been store clerk, banker and weekly newspaper publisher. In 1932 he was elected state senator, four years later lieutenant governor and in 1940 governor—the only Democrat to withstand a GOP sweep.

Schricker is pledged to a statewide primary law, repeal of the state's cigaret tax and property tax levy and passage of a bonus for veterans of World War II.

Search Continued For British Freighter, Crew

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 26—Coast Guard and Air Force planes continued a near-hopeless search today for the British freighter Hopestar and her crew of 37.

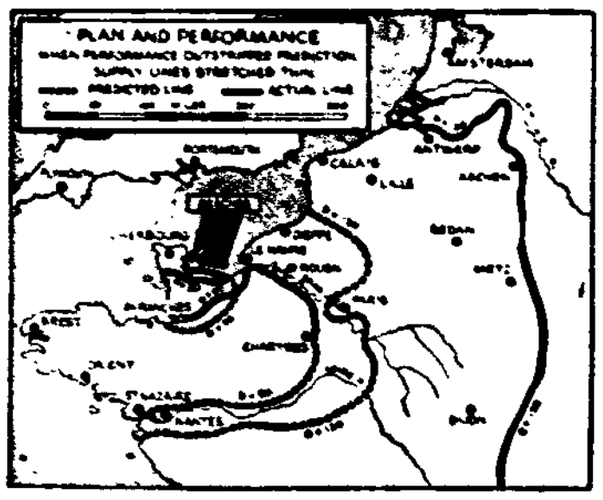
The search was expected to be abandoned last night, but Coast Guard headquarters here said bad weather prevented a full sweep of the area where the 5,267-ton ship is believed to have gone down.

Receipts from Seals For Safety Program

All proceeds from 5,000 letters containing safety seals sent out to Marion residents recently will be used in the cause of safety in Marion, emphasized spokesmen of the Junior Chamber of Commerce today. Money will be used locally for such traffic safety projects as purchase of equipment for Marion school traffic patrol boys, training aids for the Harding driving school, and luminous tape for every child's bicycle in the city.

The seals are being sold for a cent a stamp or $1 a sheet. They may be used as a decoration and seal for business and personal correspondence.

PURSUIT AND THE BATTLE OF SUPPLY



CRUSADE IN EUROPE

side rather than terminals inside the city. Pursuing the same general purpose, we wanted to avoid making Paris a battleground and consequently planned operations to cut off and surround the vicinity, thus forcing the surrender of the defending garrison.

• • •

IN THIS MATTER my hand was forced by the action of the Free French forces inside the city. Throughout France the Free French had been of inestimable value in the campaign. They were particularly active in Brittany, but on every portion of the front we secured help from them in a multitude of ways. Without their great assistance the liberation of France and the defeat of the enemy in western Europe would have consumed a much longer time and meant greater losses to ourselves. So when the Free French forces inside the city staged their uprising it was necessary to move rapidly to their support.

For the honor of first entry, General Bradley selected General LeClerc's French 2d Division. The veterans of this organization had started at Lake Chad three years before, made an almost impossible march across the Sahara Desert, joined the 8th Army to participate in the latter part of the African campaign, and now, on Aug. 25, 1944, its commander received the surrender from the German general commanding the Paris garrison. It was a satisfying climax to an odyssey which, in its entire length, carried all the way from central Africa to Berchtesgaden in Germany.

The liberation of Paris on the twenty-fifth of August had a great impact on people everywhere. Even the doubters began to see the end of Hitler. By this time enemy losses were enormous. Since our landings three of the enemy's field marshals and one Army commander had been dismissed from their posts or incapacitated by wounds. Rommel was badly wounded by one of our strafing planes on July 19. Some months later he committed suicide to escape trial for alleged complicity in the July 20 murder plot against Hitler.

GERMAN MATERIEL losses included 1,300 tanks, 20,000 other vehicles, 500 assault guns, and 1,500 pieces of artillery. In addition the German air forces had suffered extensively. More than 3,500 of his aircraft had been destroyed and this in spite of the fact that the Luftwaffe had been seriously depleted before the invasion began.

All along the front we pressed forward in hot pursuit of the fleeing enemy. In four days the British spearheads, paralleled by equally forceful American advances on their right, covered a distance of 195 miles, one of the many fine feats of marching by our formations in the great pursuit across France.

The task on the north comprised three parts. We had to secure a line far enough to the eastward to cover Antwerp and the roads and railways leading out of it toward the front. We had to reduce the German defenses in the area lying between that city and the sea. Finally, I hoped to thrust forward spearheads as far as we could, to include a bridgehead across the Rhine if possible, so as to threaten the Ruhr and facilitate subsequent offensives.

While we were examining the various factors of the question, Montgomery suddenly presented the proposition that, if we would support his 21st Army Group with all supply facilities available, he could rush right on into Berlin and, he said, end the war. I am certain that Field Marshal Montgomery, in the light of later events, would agree that this view was a mistaken one.

During early September, while returning from a visit to the forward areas, I suffered a minor injury incident to a forced landing on a beach. Caught in a sudden storm, we found it impossible to return to our own little landing strip near headquarters and had no place to land except on a neighboring beach. It was one of the beaches that the Germans had fortified before D-day, and had at one time been mined.

• • •

THIS DID NOT ADD to the comfort of our position but we tried to pull the plane far enough away from the water's edge to prevent its inundation by the rising tide. In doing so, I badly wrenched a knee. My pilot, Lieutenant Underwood, helped me across the beach while I kept an anxious eye on the smooth sand in front of us for any telltale signs of buried explosives. We reached a country road and started the long trek toward headquarters.

It was a miserable walk through a driving rain but we had little hope of thumbing a ride because the back road we were traveling was rarely used by our soldiers. However, within a few minutes there came up behind us a jeep into which eight soldiers had managed to crowd.

We flagged them down and the occupants, instantly recognizing me, jumped out to help. They were obviously astounded to see the commanding general in such an out-of-the-way place and limping along in the rain. I asked them to take me to headquarters and so great was their concern that they practically lifted me into the front seat of the jeep. Then, careful to avoid crowding against my injured leg, they allowed no one else except the driver to sit in front. I still do not understand how all the rest of them piled in and on the jeep and managed to get my pilot aboard, but this they did.

For two days I was confined to bed and thereafter was forced, for a time, to carry a plaster cast on my leg. Press representatives noted my absence from headquarters and surmised that I was ill, possibly because of overwork. When a story to this effect appeared in the press I had to publish the details of the affair, with the hope that my wife would not magnify the seriousness of the accident pending receipt of my letter of explanation.

All along the front we felt increasingly the strangulation on movement imposed by our inadequate lines of communication. The Services of Supply had made heroic and effective effort to keep us going to the last possible minute. They installed systems of truck transport by taking over main-road routes in France and using most of these for one-way traffic. These were called Red Ball Highways, on which trucks kept running continuously. Every vehicle ran at least twenty hours a day.

• • •

RAILWAY ENGINEERS worked night and day to repair broken bridges and track and to restore the operational efficiency of rolling stock. Gasoline and fuel oil were brought onto the Continent by means of flexible pipe lines laid under the English Channel. From the beaches the gas and oil were pumped forward to main distribution points through pipe lines laid on the surface of the ground.

In the months succeeding the conclusion of hostilities I had many opportunities to review various campaigns with the leaders of the Russian Army. Not once did I talk to marshals and generals but on this subject I spent a considerable time with General Staff officers. Without exception these Russian officers made one pressing demand upon me. It was to explain the supply arrangements that enabled us to make the great sweep out of our Normandy beachhead in Normandy to cover in one rush all of France, Belgium and Luxembourg up to the very borders of Germany. I had to describe to them our systems of railway repairs and construction, passage, evacuation and supply by air.

They suggested that of all the spectacular feats of the war, even including their own, the Allied success in the supply of the pursuit across France would go down in history as the most astonishing.

On our right we connected up near Dijon with Patch's advancing forces on Sept. 11 just twenty-seven days after the landing in southern France. From that moment onward the only thing standing in the way of the ample supply of all our forces south of Metz was the repair of the railways leading up the Rhone Valley.

• • •

ON THE EXTREME left the attack against Arnhem went off as planned on the seventeenth. Three airborne divisions dropped, in column, from north to south. The northernmost one was the British 1st Airborne Division, while farther southward were the American 82nd and 101st Airborne Divisions. The attack began well and unquestionably would have been successful except for the intervention of bad weather.

This prevented the adequate reinforcement of the northern spearhead and resulted finally in the decimation of the British airborne division and only a partial success in the entire operation. We did not get our bridgehead but our lines had been carried well out to defend the Antwerp base.

During the three months beginning Sept. 1, I spent a great portion of my time in travel. The front was constantly broadening and distances were getting greater, so that every visit was time-consuming. Nevertheless, they were valuable and always worth the cost in time and effort.

On one trip during the autumn I stopped briefly in a forward location to talk with several hundred men of a battalion of the 29th Infantry Division. We were all standing on a muddy, slippery hillside. After a few minutes' visit I turned to go and fell flat on my back. From the shout of laughter that went up I am quite sure that no other meeting I had with soldiers during the war was a greater success than that one. Even the men who rushed forward to help pick me out of the mire could scarcely do so for laughing.

THERE IS AN OLD expression, "the nakedness of the battlefield." It is descriptive and full of meaning for any one who has seen a battle. Except for unusual concentration of tactical activity, such as at a river crossing or an amphibious assault, the feeling that pervades the forward areas is loneliness. There is little to be seen friend and foe as well as the engines of war seem to disappear from sight when troops are deployed for a fight. Loss of control and orders are easy, because each man feels himself so much alone and each is prey to the human fear and terror that to move or show himself may result in instant death. Here is where confidence — leaders a feeling of comradeship with and trust in them, pays off.

Many of the combat troops had always to be carefully watched. The capacity of soldiers for absorbing punishment and enduring privations is almost inexhaustible as long as they believe they are getting a square deal that their commanders are looking out for them, and that their own accomplishments are understood and appreciated.

Once in Africa, front-line troops complained to me that they could get no chocolate bars or anything to smoke, when they knew that these were plentifully issued to the Services of Supply. I queried the local unit commander, who said he had requisitioned these things time and again, only to be told that no transport was available to bring them to the front.

I merely telephoned to the rear and directed that until every forward airfield and front line unit was getting its share of these items, there would not be another piece of candy or cigaret or cigar issued to any one in the supply services. In a surprisingly short time I received a happy report from the front that their requisitions were being promptly filled.

• • •

In the late summer and autumn months of 1944 the Allied armies were fighting their way bitterly up to the Rhine. Their number had grown to forty-six divisions, the capture of the port of Antwerp had become a prime necessity if they were to be supplied adequately for the final assault on Hitler's Germany.

General Eisenhower in the next installment of "Crusade in Europe," which will be published here tomorrow, describes this phase of the campaign in Europe. This was the prelude to the Battle of the Bulge, and here for the first time is the explanation of the Allied commander-in-chief of the chance which was given to the Nazis to fight their last offensive battle of the war.

Army Meets Navy Tomorrow in Football Classic

Bowl Sponsors, However, Will Be Watching Games in South.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK Nov 26—College football's most colorful spectacle—the Army-Navy game at Philadelphia tomorrow, but the Bowl sponsors will be looking the other way

They'll be focusing attention on the south which is expected to fill most of the remaining open spots in the post-season fixtures

The present list of leading bowl eligibles include five Dixie teams —Clemson North Carolina Georgia Tulane and Mississippi— plus Oklahoma the Big Seven champion, and Oregon the team that California beat out for the Rose Bowl bid

Of these, all but Oregon which has closed its schedule will be in action on the last full Saturday of the 1948 campaign

The Cotton Bowl at Dallas is still looking for an opponent for Southern Methodist The Sugar Bowl at New Orleans and the Orange at Miami must complete their entire lineup

But even with the keen bowl interest there is no stealing the spotlight from the annual battle of service elevens at Philadelphia's Municipal stadium

101,000 Expected

A crowd of 101,000, including President Truman is expected to watch Army bid for a perfect season against a Navy outfit that has lost all eight of its starts

Odds-makers have established the Cadets three touchdown favorites and, on the surface, appear to have been generous to the Midshipmen, at that Army has the most powerful ground attack in the nation and a batch of statistics to prove it

At South Bend, Notre Dame will be seeking to extend its unbeaten string to 27 games against Washington and wipe out a university record set by Knute Rockne's great 1929-30-31 teams

Clemson, one of the five unblemished powers, will try to raise its bowl stock by beating Auburn at Mobile, Ala. Once tied North Carolina will take on Virginia at Charlottesville

Traditional conflicts face the three southeastern conference hopefuls—Tulane, Mississippi and Georgia Each beaten once, they are striving for both the conference championship and a bowl date.

Georgia is host to Georgia Tech at Athens Mississippi meets Mississippi State at Oxford Tulane battles Louisiana State at Baton Rouge Vanderbilt, which has come along fast since losing a pair of season openers, meets Tennessee in another Dixie headliner.

Oklahoma's Big Seven champions close their campaign against Oklahoma A. and M at Stillwater

SMU Meets Texas Christian

Southern Methodist, winner of the Southwest conference title, engages Texas Christian at Dallas Two intersectional frays find, Michigan State at Santa Clara and Penn State at Tacoma against Washington State.

Cornell clinched its first Ivy league title in nine years yesterday by upsetting a favored Pennsylvania team 23 to 14, in the feature game of a lean Turkey day menu.

Led by Bob Dean, who scored one touchdown, set up another and kicked a 20-yard field goal, the Big Red outclassed the Quakers before 78,000 at Philadelphia's Franklin field

Texas A and M broke a nine-game losing streak to tie Texas, 14-14, and knock the Longhorns out of a chance to share the Southwest crown

Missouri won second place in the Big Seven standings by humbling Kansas, 21-7 Wake Forest headed for the Dixie bowl at Birmingham, triumphed over South Carolina, 38-0

3 Bowls Decided

Three of the minor bowl games were decided, West Chester (Pa.) Teachers edged Appalachian, 7-2 in the Burley bowl at Johnson City, Tenn Illinois Wesleyan topped Illinois Teachers, 6-0, in the Corn bowl at Bloomington.

Steve Nenoff Victor In Battle Royal

A large Thanksgiving day crowd saw Steve Nenoff come out top man in a wrestling battle royal at the Marion armory last night.

Steve and Al Alexander were the last men standing in the battle royal and were squared off for the three fall main event In one of the fastest falls ever seen at the armory Alexander stopped Nenoff in ten seconds Nenoff bounced back to take the last two falls and the match with a hammerlock and arm strangle

Dutch Schultz and Joe Wolfe fought to a draw in the semi-finals Bad boy Dale Wayne got an early shower when he was the first man eliminated in the battle royal Darrell Dunn and Bradley McKinnis wrestled to a draw in the ten minute opener

Pays Homage To (Horrors!) U. of Michigan

Johnny Rib made a name for himself and the Bruins with his educated toe and last night he proved it

As many of the New York State football fans journeyed to the Buffalo Bills eyes to behold the Adonises of University of Michigan and speculate as to why it proved to be a mistake

Last night before a record crowd of league fans at the Municipal Recreation Johnny Rib got his revenge as the Bills defeated the Wolverines of Michigan Aggies 24-20

And Jack Ballentine, chief engineer at the Osmond Canning Factory of Michigan accepted payment of the bet

Ah, pure alfalfa!

Lou Boudreau Picked Most Valuable Player

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 26—Lou Boudreau was the most valuable player in the American league in 1948 baseball writers decided today.

It was everybody agreed on that point a year ago. Now its official on the 24-man committee of the Baseball Writers association.

The writers rated the athletes first to 10 but Ed Burns of the Chicago Tribune, the retiring president, reports 22 of them named Boudreau first. The other first place ballots went to Joe Page, the pillar of the New York Yankees.

If the Yanks had been taken after the World Series, the unofficial champions of the world champion Cleveland Indians probably would have made a clean sweep. But this thing was done before the season in fact, before the American league pennant was decided in the final week of the season.

Made Good Case

Boudreau made a good case for himself on the playing field.

1. He led the Cleveland to its first world Series victory since 1920.
2. He led Cleveland to its first American League pennant since 1920.
3. He hit .355, second only to Ted Williams, the champ.
4. He worked out the pickoff play that created such a stir in the Series.

When things looked dark for Cleveland after Boston took over first place in late summer, Boudreau kept insisting "we'll win."

When the Indians lost their final game of the regular season and had to travel to Boston for a playoff game he said, "We're just coming into Boston a little early for the Series."

It was Boudreau's first-inning home run off Denny Galehouse in the playoff game that instilled confidence in the Tribe.

Boudreau snared most of the honors during the 48 season and now he has won one of the most coveted awards for the first time.

DiMaggio Led in RBI's

DiMaggio, most valuable in 1939, 1941 and 1947 was one of the most important reasons for the Yanks' third place finish. His hitting and outfield play, despite a leg injury, kept New York in the race until the day before the end. He batted in 156 runs, most in the league, on a .320 average.

On a point basis, with 14 for first, nine for second and on down to one for tenth, Boudreau received 324 to 213 for Joe DiMaggio.

Ted Williams, the batting king with an unofficial .369, was third with 171 but no first place votes. Next came Vern (Junior) Stephens, purchased from St. Louis in one of the biggest deals in history, drove home 137 runs. He polled 121 points to 101 for Cleveland's 20-game winner Bob Lemon, the only pitcher in the first five.

Joe Gordon, Boudreau's partner in Cleveland's fine double play combination, tied for sixth with the Yanks' Tommy Henrich who had a great year, hitting .308 and driving in 100 runs for the first time in his major league career. Each had 63 points.

Gene Bearden, a pitching hero in Cleveland's Series success, was eighth with 52. Then came Hal Newhouser of Detroit, most valuable in 1944 and 1945. He had 48 points to 39 for tenth place Eddie Joost, the shortstop sparkplug of the Philadelphia A's.

Miami Wins Loop Title; Case, Mt. Union Triumph

By The Associated Press

Miami university in the 1948 Mid-American conference championship, wresting the title from defending University of Cincinnati, 43-18 in Ohio's top Thanksgiving day football clash.

Three other Ohio games involving Ohio teams saw Case win 13-7 in its first victory in 21 years over Western Reserve university, Mt. Union overpower Wooster college 21-6 and the University of Chattanooga defeat favored University of Dayton 21-6.

Playing at Cincinnati, the Redskins scored two touchdowns in the first four minutes. It was the 32nd time the two teams had met during their 60-year-old rivalry.

A crowd of 31,000 saw Miami run up 26 points before the Bearcats managed to score. After achieving a 20-13 halftime edge, Miami scored once in each of the final quarters.

In Cleveland, Coach Ray Bates Case eleven led all the way, scoring a safety and two touchdowns on passes. Reserve's only touchdown came on a 69-yard pass. A crowd of 13,900 fans watched wildly cheering Case students carry off both goal posts after the victory.

The Wooster-Mt. Union tilt at Wooster revived an old Thanksgiving day football rivalry after a several year lapse.

Wooster's Jim Kennedy gave his team its only touchdown in the first quarter of the game, taking advantage of a Mt. Union fumble. Virgil Arling scored twice for Mt. Union with Randy Pope making the extra point.

The only intrastate game featuring an Ohio team was Bowling Green when Dayton's Dick Wilson punched across Travis Jones in the final minute of play. Jones, the lone Falcon Senior Lineman in the Chattanooga game, was taken to the dressing room for a blood transfusion. Falcon coach Joe Sabol later announced.

Texas Jack Hoover moved two touchdowns for Chattanooga the first time they got the ball. The home team came up two more touchdowns with a third and fourth quarters with Clarence Tapper carrying.

Dayton scored on a short plunge by Joe Ramella.

YOUTH, 18, SLOWLY TURNING TO STONE

By The Associated Press

DAYTON, O., Nov. 26—A Piqua youth who is said to be slowly turning to stone managed to give the nurses at St Elizabeth's hospital today a cheerful smile. It was his 18th birthday.

George Taylor never had to celebrate a birthday in a hospital before. But he took it with a smile even though they told him he was suffering from a rare disease with a long name he couldn't pronounce—myositis ossificans. It meant an inflammation of the muscles and a changing of the tissues into a stony condition.

Physicians described the condition as serious and permanently incapacitating. It was doubtful whether the youth ever would regain full use of his arms and legs.

George is one of 11 children in the family of Darrell Taylor, a garage operator at Piqua. He first noticed symptoms of the disease 11 months ago. When his condition grew worse he was brought here for treatment at a convalescent home. Then on Oct 27 he was admitted to St Elizabeth's hospital for a study of his ailment. The disease was diagnosed after X-rays, blood tests and tissue studies.

The studies revealed a marked calcification in the muscular lining, particularly in the region of the thighs and leg muscles.

It was described as the first such case treated here in 22 years. Cause of the disease unknown.

VOTE COUNT TO BE RESUMED SATURDAY

Burton Indicates He Won't Call Off Check Before Finish.

Union Secretary Robert G Burton changed his mind or was persuaded to call off the county election board members' "recount" of the votes cast in the last 15 county precincts after they met today.

Burton said this noon that he had no intention of calling off the recount of the votes cast for the office of county treasurer despite the fact that at the conclusion of a 40 precinct recount he had a net gain of but 16 votes.

"Anything can happen" he said. He indicated he planned on conferring with Election Board Clerk Kenneth Fields this afternoon but that he doubted there would be any change in his intention to carry the count all the way.

The election board completed recount of the votes cast in the 30 city precincts and 10 county precincts by Wednesday afternoon after beginning with the tally Tuesday morning. The board recessed over the holiday and is to start again tomorrow unless new developments turn up today.

AVC OUT TO PURGE REDS FROM RANKS

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Nov. 26—American Veterans Committee leaders sought convention approval today "to clean out and keep out members of the Communist party from our ranks."

The 25-member national planning committee which governs the AVC between annual conventions prepared a resolution to purge Communists from the group when the four-day convention opened yesterday.

Opposition is expected when the 1,500 delegates representing nearly 50,000 members in every state get the measure for debate, but national chairman Chat Paterson was confident of overwhelming approval.

"Anyone who continues to regard the AVC as a Communist organization after this convention will be readily recognizable as the type who also regarded Franklin D Roosevelt and Wendell Willkie as Communists," Paterson said.

Coast Passenger Rams Into Derailed Freight

By The Associated Press

FREDERICKSBURG, Va., Nov. 26—A 50-man crew from two wrecker trains early today strove to clear the tracks near here where the Atlantic Coast line's East Coast Champion rammed into cars of a derailed freight train.

About a dozen cars from the freight train were scattered near Hamilton's crossing, four miles south of here. The Champion's engine was derailed.

Bound from New York to Miami the Champion hit the freight shortly after 8 p m yesterday.

Fingerprinting was not applied scientifically to identification work until the late 19th Century.

CONGRESS TO DROP CONTEMPT ACTION

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26 — Congress apparently will drop contempt action against some 60 people who refused to say whether they are or ever were Communists.

There are three reasons:

1 The justice department has passed the word informally that it's best to lay off until its own cases against Communists party leaders are out of the way.

2 The house committees involved — labor and un-American activities—probably couldn't get their members together before the end of the year to act on contempt citations.

3 House legal experts doubt that contempt action begun in the present congress could be carried over to the new one. Their curbstone opinion is that any contempt involved was against the 80th congress, but that the 81st couldn't cite anybody except for contempt against itself.

Telling of the particular need of the people for shoes he commended highly the special drive for shoes which the Ministerial association had conducted in connection with the Thanksgiving service. The shoes will be packed for shipment and sent overseas soon. At the close of the service, Rev J B Holloway pronounced the benediction.

CABINET REVIEWS FOREIGN AFFAIRS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26—President Truman and his cabinet reviewed foreign affairs at an hour-long session today.

Cabinet members told reporters after the meeting that Secretary of State Marshall did a great deal of talking.

Postmaster General Donaldson said Marshall brought the cabinet "up to date" on the international situation.

Presumably that meant Marshall covered both the European and Chinese phases of the foreign situation.

Donaldson would not go into details of what Marshall said, nor would other cabinet members.

Similar course of action may hold true for the case now before the court should the court decision parallel that rendered in the case of the firemen.

Walking on Water Irks Venetian Gondoliers

By The United Press

VENICE—Gondoliers in the ancient city of canals always have something to gripe about. Last year it was motorboats which spoil down Venice's canals laden with tourists, who rode faster and cheaper than the pole-shoving gondola welders and their few customers.

This year it's a fad. Somebody got a pair of water skis and practiced walking on the canals. Now the idea is spreading. The gondoliers want some city ordinance passed prohibiting walking on water, "or else we go out of business for good."

ANGLER HOOKS PLANE

By The United Press

YONKERS — A strong-armed caster fishing from a dock near the Yonkers seaplane base cast his sinker right through one side of an anchored plane and out the other. Francis Houle, seated in cockpit, reported that the hook broke through the side, too, passing just under his nose to stick in the far side of the cockpit. The fisherman ran.

How To Stay Healthy

By Hal Boyle

HOW to be healthy all over—instead of being unhealthy in one place at a time?

I have finally solved the problem. The answer is to find a group of hypochondriacs. Then do what they do.

Hypochondriacs are people who imagine they have illnesses—any or all illnesses. And they are all around you. There are more hypochondriacs in America than there are Republicans.

Before I began consulting hypochondriacs I never knew what real health was.

Hal Boyle

I made vague, unguided solo attempts to keep fit and well.

I read so many books on how to make the best of my physical birthright that finally I had to wear glasses for eyestrain. I took icy morning showers to make me more rugged. All I caught was cold. I took to lifting barbells for exercise. What happened? I had to take a day off each week to rest up.

This was getting me nowhere. I was worn out, rundown and sleepless from trying to stay healthy.

Then I met my first hypochondriac, a man with the mistaken idea he had a bad heart. He almost fainted when I told him I was lifting barbells.

"Don't you know exercise kills more people than motor cars?" he said.

I QUIT EXERCISING. Immediately the tired feeling went away.

Another day I complained of a stomach pain to an office friend who thought he had an ulcer.

"Better stick to milk," he said. I went down, had a glass of milk and came back up still feeling hungry. I bumped into a skinny hypochondriac.

"You need more nourishment man," he said.

I went down and had a hamburger, and came back up again feeling better. But a vegetarian hypochondriac was horrified.

"Meat fills a multitude of graves," he remarked ominously.

So back down I went a third time and ate a combination salad, two radishes, a glass of orange juice, a banana split, and a sack of salted peanuts. The stomach pains were all gone. I felt fine.

IT WAS THEN I got the idea that hypochondriacs know more about health than anybody. Not just one—but all of them together. You have to pool all their individual knowledge.

That's what I do now. I go around and take a pill with each hypochondriac for what ails him, and do what his physician told him to do.

I carefully follow each hypochondriac's diet—all at the same time. I eat lettuce and carrots with the boys who want to lose weight. Burrow through beefsteaks with the ones who want to stay slim. I have a glass of beer with the fellow whose doctor says he can drink but must avoid tobacco; I accept a cigar from the gent who can smoke but can't have any alcohol.

Once every week I play poker or go to a nightclub with in-

A-BOMB AIDED JAP SUFFERING LEUKEMIA

By HOWARD W BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor
By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 26 — The [illegible] Nagasaki gave the [illegible] treatment for his [illegible] it did not, however.

The healing effect of an atom bomb was reported here today in the American Journal of Surgery by Dr. Austin M. Brues of the University of Chicago.

One of the professors of the Nagasaki medical school, he [illegible] who was suffering from [illegible] myeloid leukemia and [illegible] both responding well to [illegible] therapy received prolonged remission as a result of the radiation received at the time of the blast.

This professor got a big dose of gamma rays from the flash of the bomb, the same rays that caused an estimated eight to 15 per cent of June ever deaths, also loss of hair for many people and temporary sterility.

These gamma rays are exactly the same as the X-rays which the professor had been receiving and which had failed to help his leukemia.

The bomb rays, however were much more penetrating than most X-rays or most radium gamma rays. The professor was in the Nagasaki medical college, which was only a few hundred yards from the point where the bomb went off. He was close enough so that out in the open the rays would have caused his death even if concussion and burns failed to kill him.

The building walls shielded him from the full force of the bomb's gamma rays, and at the same time by sheer luck gave him just the dosage which helped his leukemia.

X-rays and gamma rays never cure leukemia. The rays make a patient feel better for varying lengths of time, and the bomb did this for the professor for an unusually long time.

Truckload of Guns Seized in New York

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 26 — The [illegible] and intended destination of a seized truckload of guns and ammunition was still unknown today.

But there were hints according to police, that the weapons were to be sent to Israel.

Police reported the FBI is taking a hand in the investigation of the case, in which five men were arrested yesterday.

They were taken in custody at an Upper Manhattan garage where police seized a two-and-a-half ton truck and a small arsenal of rifles, pistols, machineguns and ammunition.

They were arraigned yesterday on charges of violating the state Sullivan (weapons) law, and the case was adjourned until Dec. 9.

Question for Congress

PRESIDENT TRUMAN, in his first policy-making decision since the national election, has vetoed Foreign Aid Administrator Hoffman's decision to let private enterprise handle grain exports after Dec. 1.

Hoffman had made this decision under the foreign assistance act, which specified that the Marshall plan should be put into effect wherever possible by means of private channels of trade. Grain exports now are being handled by the government through its Commodity Credit Corp. Mr. Truman's veto of Mr. Hoffman's order means they will be continued to be handled in the same way. Private enterprise will be excluded.

There apparently is a basic difference of opinion here which congress will have to decide. The proviso that private enterprise should be favored over government management was important to the congressmen who voted for it. It reflected the prevailing opinion in the 80th congress as a whole—a congress which believed in private enterprise and had a deep mistrust of government management.

In his campaign for the presidency, Mr. Truman castigated the 80th congress for supporting private enterprise and the profit and loss system. He embraced the state socialism of the New Deal and made that his principal talking point. He openly sought and was given the support of individuals and organizations which are opposed to private enterprise and prefer to pursue policies of collectivism, toward the ultimate goal of a welfare state in which the federal government progressively would take over all economic responsibility.

Mr. Truman won the election. His Socialist backers are claiming that they won a mandate to go ahead with their collectivist program. The circumstantial evidence suggests that Mr. Truman's veto of Mr. Hoffman's order represents their influence. Those who believe this is so are noting that the probable effect of the veto will be to subsidize grain farmers by government buying at a higher price than would be paid by private dealers operating in a free market. The certain effect of the veto is to keep the government in absolute control of grain exports.

In the story of this significant presidential decision appears a memorable quotation by Foreign Aid Administrator Hoffman. Asked by a news correspondent whether the export trade ever will be returned to private hands, in view of the fact that government buying was begun under the excuse of scarcity and now is being continued under the excuse of abundance, Mr. Hoffman said, "That's up to the President."

But it's only up to Mr. Truman temporarily. He is the Chief Executive, not the national legislature. He does not make laws. He administers laws. The main business of the 81st congress is going to be to resolve the issue of whether the United States intends to drift into socialism, or whether it intends to let private enterprise continue the efforts that have made this the world's most prosperous nation.

Evolution of a New Justice

GEN. MacARTHUR in his denial of clemency for Japan's war criminals declares that their trials were fair; that every safeguard was used "to evolve justice."

His choice of that phrase is fortunate. It sidetracks the legalistic objection to the German war trials, which was that they were based on ex post facto law and therefore contrary to sound jurisprudence.

The United States tried in the Japanese war trials to evolve a new principle of justice, with perhaps greater success than was possible in the German trials. The Japanese, lacking long experience with law, may be less concerned with the legalities of justice and more concerned with its spirit than westerners.

They may be able to comprehend that the spirit of justice in the war trials was not to punish men because they had lost a war but rather to punish them for having started a war. Gen. MacArthur again is quotable:

"I pray that an omnipotent providence may use this tragic expiation as a symbol to summon all persons of good will to a realization of the utter futility of war—that most malignant scourge of mankind—and eventually to its renunciation by all nations."

Interesting Vote Figures

By David Lawrence

Showing Again "A Miss Is as Good as a Mile"

WASHINGTON

THERE'S a saying that "a miss is as good as a mile." It applies particularly to the interesting fact just brought out by the latest Associated Press figures showing that if 35,000 persons out of approximately 47,000,000 had changed their votes Dewey would have been elected.

Such a calculation has been made after nearly every presidential election but this year it has a special meaning. It renders absurd much of the thoughtless comment that has been heard since the election about how intentionally "misleading" were the polls or forecasters.

Too many people have never taken the time or trouble to examine the electoral system by which presidents are chosen. They would have been willing to forget the errors in all the polls and forecasts this year if the electoral vote had resulted in a victory for Dewey. Yet the same margin of error in many states was made in previous elections by the Gallup poll for instance, but this was overlooked because the overall poll happened to pick the winner.

• • •

IF, AS HAS BEEN proposed again and again, the election of a president were to be by popular vote there never would have been such despair among the Democratic party managers as they exhibited privately during the campaign this year, and there never would have been the overconfidence which the Republicans manifested.

All through the campaign, the newspapers generally reported the truth as they saw it—the closeness of the popular vote. Again and again it was pointed out by forecasters and even pollsters—by none other than Dr. Gallup himself—that the popular vote would be close. The public impression today is that Roosevelt won all his elections easily. Yet, in 1940 and 1944 the popular vote was so close it could easily have resulted in a victory for the Republican nominee if just a small number of votes had changed in a few states.

The importance of the popular vote has somehow been minimized and the electoral vote result overemphasized.

THE NEWSPAPERS are not political organizations, nor are they betting guides on everything from horse races to football games. They express their own views in editorial pages, to be sure, but in the news pages they report the news and the happenings of the campaign. The newspapers cannot make a check-up of votes by precincts during campaigns. That is the business of the political parties. To say that the political reporters should have done a different reporting job in each state is to imply that they did not exercise their honest judgment. What the reporters couldn't change was the evidence available to them. Even many of the Democrats now elected to congress could not see victory for themselves in their own districts, even as late as the day before election. If the reporters who honestly reported what was told them privately by the campaign managers of both sides had guessed a Truman victory they would have been right in their guesses, but they would have been doing a dishonest job of reporting. An honest reporter who conscientiously described the evidence of trends available to him in the campaign need make no apology after a close election.

• • •

IF THE 1948 election brings about a wider education of the public on the difference between popular vote and electoral vote, it will be of tremendous value for the future. As long as the electoral system permits a majority of a single vote of a citizen in the state of New York, for example, to cast 47 electoral votes out of 266 necessary to elect, the forecasting of any election in which the popular division is close can be a surprise. This has been said thousands of times and written many times, including this summer and autumn, but somehow it seems to be still unknown to millions of otherwise well-informed persons.

How many people today know the answer to this question: Has a majority of the popular vote failed to elect a president and how many times did the candidate who polled a minority of the total of all parties receive a majority of the electoral votes just the same and become president? Answer: Yes, three times—1876, 1888 and 1916.

The Liberal Position

By George E. Sokolsky

ROGERS C. DUNN of the Dunn Survey, makes an interesting point:

"Self-styled 'liberals' in the Republican party are obviously blind to the fact that the more they succeed in making the Republican party 'liberal,' the more liberal, or leftist, the New Deal is forced to go."

That has now happened in three campaigns. The Republican party has been moving toward what is called "liberalism," by which is meant timeliness as to policy based upon the probabilities of popularity; this means uncertainty and flexibility as to principle. The Democratic party, on the other hand, has continued an inner struggle which began with William Jennings Bryan, the struggle between Populism and Conservatism. The Democrats have steadily been moving in the direction of what in Europe is called social democracy. The third party in the United States is the Communist party, by whatever name it may momentarily be called.

ACROSS THIS IDEOLOGICAL simplification run the complexities of American life which are inevitable in a free society.

In a word, men do not fit rigid categories. Such persons as Chester Bowles or Paul Porter would anywhere else in this world be regarded as Socialists; here they are only Socialists in certain phases of political expression, in others, they are actually conservative.

The reason for this lack of clarification is that most Americans in politics do not have a philosophic basis for action, they are generally opportunistic and take winning positions. That is, they "play politics," as the phrase goes; they are not ready to be martyrs to a cause. This was obvious in the last election. When Dewey refused to defend the 80th congress, the Taft-Hartley act, and so on, he forced Truman to move closer to the Wallace program. Truman, who wanted a fighting campaign "to give them hell," found that his principal opponent would not fight back. This was sheer opportunism on all sides. Dewey felt that he could win by his pattern; Truman felt that he could win by his pattern. But who stood up for any principles involved in the election?

THE REAL DANGER in this opportunism lies in its leftward trend. If the Republicans continue to push the Democrats into Socialism, the general American population, which is conservative and capitalistic, will be without representation altogether. Certainly on basic questions, Dewey and Truman were closer than Truman can possibly be to such men as Chester Bowles and Paul Porter. Senator Barkley is ideologically closer to Senator Taft than he is to Senator Pepper. There is a falseness in the alignments in both parties, an inability to formulate principles and a lack of resistance to leftward magnetism. This we need to understand before the 81st congress gets to work.

The word "liberal" has come to cover a multitude of confusions. When one speaks of a Republican liberal, precisely what is meant? How does a Republican liberal differ from a New Dealer? How do Senator Tobey and Senator Aiken differ from Senator Pepper and Senator Glen Taylor? In what fundamental concepts are these men different? Why should one be a Democrat and the other a Republican?

It would intetresting if these four men were to write on paper, say, in something the size of this column, each one's philosophic concept of American life. These men would prove to be close to each other, but all would be very far from, let us say, Senator Taft. On the other hand, such a man as Senator George, a Democrat, would not be far removed from Senator Taft.

UNLESS THE REPUBLICAN party can formulate a definite and clear philosophic program, it cannot return to office. It has now failed five times, four times because to the conservative voters it did not have enough to say. The last three elections were marked by Republican abstention from voting. These Republicans did not stay away from the polls because they were "lazy" or "overconfident." They stayed away because they were dissatisfied with the position of their party, with its so-called "liberalism," with its running on the heels of the New Deal in the direction of state socialism. When in Ohio, 100,000 vote for either governor but cut both presidential candidates they indicate a distaste for their party's national policy.

What To Do About China?

By Mark Sullivan

WASHINGTON

TO MAKE into definite news what Washington is going to do about China has baffled newsmen. The administration has been reluctant to make definite statements, has been in fact indefinite in its own deliberations. The indefiniteness is likely to continue, and any specific decision bearing on a course about China is likely to be fragmentary. We will probably take steps that will mitigate the China condition, and our steps may be effective; but we are not likely to announce an all-out course toward an end firmly decided upon.

Conceivably we could decide to save China from communism, in the same sense that have decided to save the countries of western Europe, and by the same means, including aid to make those countries economically and militarily strong. But the cost of that course would be unthinkable, literally so in the sense that no one can think accurately about what the cost would be. A figure current in Washington is $5 billion. But the more accurate estimate is one which admits that it cannot be accurate at all. A phrase used by persons who earnestly desire to save China, but are also realistic and candid, is, "an indefinite amount for an indefinite number of years."

• • •

TO ADD AN INDEFINITE commitment of such magnitude to commitments we are already under, definite and indefinite—aid to Europe under the Marshall plan, increase in our own military strength, aid to European countries to enable them to increase military strength for defense against Communism and Russia, our own domestic needs—to add those together is to bring us face to face with the dilemma that underlies everything.

That dilemma facing us springs from the double strategy of the Russian purpose to communize the world. The purpose is pursued along two lines. One consists of infiltration into other countries, incitement of chaos and civil war within them, constant pressure, cold war and war of nerves, accompanied by some use of force and constant threat of it.

The other prong of Russian and Communist strategy is to bring about destruction of the existing economic system in the United States. We are the spearhead of world resistance to the Communist world purpose, and destruction of our economic system would be world victory for communism. It is this prong of her overall strategy that Russia has always cherished most. She is as much advantaged by putting us to the expense of defense against her threat of world Communism and of war as she would be by war itself.

• • •

THE DESTRUCTION of our economic system which Russia hopes for could result from violent inflation in the United States. And it is this danger we must take account of when we consider adding to our already dangerous sum of commitments an indefinite one for aid to China.

The dilemma confronting us is tragic. For next to the destruction of our economic system, the principal hope of Russia lies in taking over China. The importance of China is to be found in sentences and phrases of a statement made three years ago by the head of the Communist party in the United States, William Z. Foster:

"The war in China is the key to all problems of the international front and it is here, above all else, where we have to deal the hardest blow . . . on the international scale, the key task . . . is to stop American intervention in China . . . the question of China . . . is our key concentration."

This Communist head was emphasizing primarily the importance of China, and secondarily the importance of preventing us from aiding China. But it is not the American Communists who prevent us now from giving China as much aid as we would like to. What deters us is mainly consideration of the cost under existing conditions. We will do what we can, but what we can do is short of all-out dedication to the full extent of our aid to Western Europe.

• • •

IT IS DOUBTFUL if Governor Dewey, had he been elected, could have done much more. He, in his campaign, was much stronger about aid to China than President Truman. So far as he emphasized the past, he had a case; three years ago the advance of Communism into North China was slight compared to what it now is. But opposition by us at that time would have run counter to our then broad policy of getting along with Russia.

Baldwin's View

Connecticut Senator Wants GOP Leadership from Younger Element in Party.

By Raymond Moley

REPUBLICAN comment on the election and its aftermath is now looking to party leadership. But Dewey, the defeated and Taft, foremost possible leader in congress, are subject to somewhat different criticism. Dewey is castigated because he failed to defend in detail and affirmatively the record of the eightieth congress. This criticism it would be hard indeed to find in some of the other Republican statesmen and from some members of congress.

Taft is criticized because it is asserted, he largely made the record of the eightieth congress, and that of course was Truman's main campaign issue. Part of this criticism also comes from members of congress.

It is worthy of note that the Taft critics and the Dewey critics are of quite different schools of political thought. In the course of the months ahead, when Republican policy is being made in congress, this conflict will be a continuing issue.

IT CAN BE TAKEN for granted that when the senate convenes the more extreme group consisting of Senators Morse, Aiken and Tobey, who claim the characterization of "liberal" will be in mild rebellion against the senate leaders of the eightieth congress, with the exception of Vandenberg who as a leader occupies a unique place. This group of dissenters can hardly be expected to recruit new followers. They will probably remain as they are—a small group of mavericks.

There are a considerable number of middle-of-the-road senators who will have great influence in shaping policy. Foremost in this group is Senator Baldwin of Connecticut. Baldwin's position has a certain logic and security which must be noted in any effort to appraise future Republican leadership. He came to prominence ten years ago when he was elected governor of Connecticut. He lost in 1940, but returned to serve two more terms as governor and to be elected senator in 1946. In 1940 he was a strong Willkie supporter and clearly belonged to the non-isolationist wing of the party. His political wisdom was far greater than that of Willkie, and he quietly assumed a firm grip on his party in Connection. He got along with labor while holding in line the more conservative elements in his state.

HE HAS PERSONALITY, force and intelligence. In the eightieth congress his voting was fairly regular, but it will be remembered that at one time he led a mild revolt against the Taft-Wherry leadership. In this election he helped his party carry the state for Dewey, although the governorship and half the congressional seats went Democratic.

Baldwin's public comment on the election bears study, largely because he will be a factor to be reckoned with in the new senate. In a post-election speech he frankly admitted that the Republican party and the eightieth congress failed to meet issues for which the public was "earnestly seeking solutions, such as housing and high prices." Congress, Baldwin says, did many good things but failed to get them across to the voters.

Basically, Baldwin says, it should be recognized that the world and the United States are in the midst of a social evolution: "The Republican party has a great opportunity to give real meaning, sound leadership and true direction to that evolution." In doing so, it "must appeal to recruits from the younger generation."

Those senators who share the Baldwin views will probably seek, under the titular leadership of Vandenberg, to shape policy in the new congress and to build for better days to come.

Smile Please

By Truman Twill

The X-ray branch of the medical profession surely can spare a few minutes from its push-buttons, charts and lip-pursing to consider some earnest suggestions for improving its candid camera technique. We have compared notes with other much-photographed specimens and reached the following conclusions:

1. The subjects of X-ray photography are as camera-shy as human beings with unflattering outward characteristics and for the same reason—they dred to learn what the picture is certain to show. Suggestion: They should be wheedled and appeased, not commanded in heartless tones to put on display what they would prefer, all things considered, to keep hidden.

2. The subjects are feeling down at the heels and badly used as the result of being plied with dosages of unpleasant compounds calculated to bring out the hidden truth. Then at the climax of their bitter misery, when they don't care whether they live or die anyway, they are ordered curtly to abandon their clothing. Suggestion: This is no time for cheese-cake, so don't be so curt about those orders.

3. The subjects are either hot or cold, depending on which reaction they are having to their discomfort and the impact of strange surroundings. In either case they are made no happier by being brought into sudden juxtaposition with slabs of polished material, metal braces, the surface of the X-ray operator's rubber gloves, etc. Suggestion: Let's heat up this stuff to body temperatures before putting bodies in contact with it.

4. The subjects who have abandoned their regular clothing are given what is known in hospital parlance as angel robes to wear. These are made of stuff, starched cotton material and are not custom-tailored. It is lucky if they make ends meet, which is especially awkward when they must be tied in the back like an apron. Suggestion: How about switching to cashmere, using sizes approximately adjusted to the size of the victim and making certain that no one ever again sits down on a cold surface for lack of an extra yard of material—ever!

5. The subjects, being ill at ease, half-sick or worse and subject to the embarrassment of being deprived of their clothing are further discommoded by being obliged to listen to a lot of spooky buzzing, snapping and a spatter of technical jargon, all of which makes matters worse. Suggestion: Let's drown out these sound effects with full orchestra renditions of "The Merry Widow Waltz" and "Spring Song." Let's make the best of a bad situation so the ordeal, including the bill, will be easier to bear.

France Over-Rich in Monuments

By The Associated Press

PARIS—France has more historical monuments than she knows what to do with.

The education ministry has classified 12,000 cathedrals, chateaux, etc. as historical monuments.

Many erstwhile rich Frenchmen, now fallen upon hard times, have been offering their ancient houses to the government which has been turning them down for lack of funds to keep them up.

This Catch Was Not Fishy

By The Associated Press

CAIRO, Ill.—A small boy thought he had a whopper on his fishing line but hauled in a hand truck. The catch piqued the curiosity of the police and they went fishing too. They pulled in a cracked safe. It had been missing since a $400 safe burglary at a bottling firm several days before.

LETTERS FROM OUR READERS

"THANK YOU" TOWN

Editor of The Star—Most folks have their pet peeves and are always throwing brickbats at our city of Marion. Something nice in line of a complimentary remark should be passed on I believe.

While I was in a dentist's office this last week, awaiting my appointment, an elderly gentleman came out and sat down. He was waiting on the Mrs. We passed the time of day and talked a little in general. In the conversation he mentioned he and his wife moved here to retire about one year ago.

I asked, "Do you find Marion a friendly city?" (Which I have heard more time than one it was not.)

To my surprise he said people were friendly and Marion was the most "Thank You" town he had ever seen.

The gentleman had been a traveling salesman all his life and noticed this about Marion at once. Everybody says "Thank you" to everything. Even when he bought postage stamps at our local postoffice.

It pleased me greatly to think Marion was noticed for this detail, which cost us all nothing.

The double ring ceremony was performed Sunday, Nov. 14, at noon in First Presbyterian church by the pastor, Rev. Howard L. Olewiler.

In keeping with the wedding tradition of "something blue," the bride chose for her marriage a street length dress of light blue, fashioned with sweetheart neckline and she carried out other wedding traditions in costume. Her accessories were in luggage brown. Only jewelry she wore was a strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom. Her corsage was of pink sweetheart roses.

Attending the bride was Mrs. Ruth Wilking who wore a grey dress with black accessories and corsage of yellow roses. W. O. Moore, brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Blair wore a black dress with which she combined black accessories, and Mrs. Moore, mother of the bridegroom, chose a dress in a dark green shade with which she wore black accessories. Flowers for both were corsages of white roses.

Following the ceremony, a buffet lunch was served at the Blair home. Centering the table was a three-tier wedding cake topped with miniature bride and bridegroom.
